

Post-War and The Farmer

Electricity on the Farm by Prof. Andrew Stewart, Dept. of Political Economy, University of Alberta

Electricity on the farm has been part of the dreams of farm folk. There is no good reason why electrification of the farm should remain a mere dream to many prairie farm people, if they will begin now to plan and, by saving, to provide for it. In all three prairie provinces governments have given evidence of their intention to encourage and assist in farm electrification. Private distributors of power and of electrical appliances are looking to the farm market which they hope will open up when materials become available again. If governments, manufacturers and distributors are ready to do their share, the rest is up to farm people themselves. They can start now to set aside the capital which will be required to put electricity to work in the home and on the farm.

In Manitoba and Alberta, where well-developed transmission systems already exist, active preparations are under way for the building of farm distribution lines in the postwar years. The Manitoba Electrification Enquiry Commission recommended the construction of lines to serve 25,000 farms in that province. Since then the Manitoba Power Commission has been proceeding with survey to locate farm lines and with such extensions as the shortage of materials has permitted. In Alberta, farm electrification is receiving the close attention of the newly formed Power Commission; and the private utilities are constructing three test areas this summer. The first poles are up to serve 65 farmers in one locality; and, materials and labour permitting more 200 farm homes will have electricity before freeze up. All this activity suggests that, when the war is over, many farms, in areas where sufficient concentration of farms can be found, will have the chance to connect to farm power lines.

In some areas in each of the prairie provinces towns are so far apart, and distances between farm buildings are so great, that the building of transmission and farm distribution lines is not a practical possibility. This is where the individual farm plant has its place. Most of the prairie farms now electrified have their own plants driven either by gasoline or wind; and the farmers who own these plants are well pleased with the service they get from them. Of course they would like to get power off the line, but that is because they have already experienced the advantages of electricity on the farm.

Whether farms are to be served from the power line or by the farm plant, it will be necessary for the farmer to wire his buildings and to purchase electrical appliances. Wiring costs will vary greatly between farms. The cost of equipment depends on the nature and number of appliances installed and will range from a small amount for lights only to an investment of several hundred dollars in equipment for farm and home. The larger the amount spent on appliances the greater the benefits secured, and the additional energy costs are small.

If farms are connected to power lines most, if not all, of the construction overhead will probably be charged in the minimum monthly bill; and the farmer will not have to invest his own capital to get energy. On the other hand, if the farm is to be electrified by the individual plant, the farmer will have to purchase the plant and batteries. Reliable plants offered on the market vary considerably in capacity, cost, and the service they will provide. It is possible to get a small plant which will light a few bulbs but nothing more. However, most farmers who have small plants wish they had larger ones. Plants and batteries large enough to give satisfactory service might cost from $400 to $700.

Many farmers could not find the necessary investment out of the returns from a single crop; and even if they could the materials and appliances are not available to do the job now. Many farmers if they would start saving now—buying Victory Bonds and ear-marking them for this purpose—would have enough accumulated to electrify their farms when the opportunity arises.

ART BE HANGED

What a lot of pure bunk our radio broadcasters indulged in, so anxious were they that Florence the Art centre should be saved. Our hope is that they blast the infernal place, and also take pot shots at that Leaning Tower. The Huns and the Dagoes didn't spare London and other English cities. The world can live quite comfortably without that Florence art—much of which is vulgarity—and that canted monstrosity. It has been long enough a world wonder. New Glasgow Herald.

Coal Shortage May Be Acute

Munitions Minister Howe issues a warning to the coal user who fails to order immediately, that he may find himself without coal when the severe weather-sets in, and discloses that there will be a reduction in shipments of Welsh coal and American anthracite this winter. At the same time the United States fuel administrator has said that America faces a 6,000,000 ton shortage and shipments to Canada will have to be reduced.

If you need coal, you are urged to place your order now. It may be some time before your requirements can be filled and the warnings of shortage should not be ignored.

The war situation in August, 1944, is very similar to the war in August, 1918.

Lt. Cpl. Gordon Soby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Soby of Claresholm, died of wounds received in action in France on August 6. He took up engineering at University of Alberta and following this he worked with the Dept. of Transport engineering parties during the construction of the network of air training stations in Alberta.

Hunters Allowed Shell Quota

Hunters of the district are advised that shotgun shells and .22 rim cartridges will be available in moderate quantity for sporting purposes. Owners of firearms registered prior to August 15 may apply to their local ration office and upon presentation of their personal ration book and gun registration certificate, will receive a permit to purchase 50 shotgun shells and 100 .22 cartridges. No centre fire or big game ammunition has been released up to the present. Regulations provide that the owner of several guns receives no more ammunition than the person with a single gun in his possession.

Hunters whose guns were registered on or after August 15th must declare that ammunition was not previously obtained by someone else for the same gun or that the gun had not been transferred to another person to get more ammunition than he was entitled to. Application may be made through your local ration office by mail and should be accompanied by the required documents.

"Missing"

(Anprior Chronicle)

There is no word which brings more anxiety, anguish and pain to the heart than that one little word "missing" during these terrible days of turmoil, when some wife or mother receives a message that a loved one is missing. There are long days and nights of watchful waiting, ever hoping for news that the lost one has been found. Every time there is a knock on the door, the telephone rings, or a letter comes, hope springs up that it is some news of the missing one, followed by a let-down feeling when it is only a friend or neighbor calling up or dropping in to see if any news has come.

Only those who are going through this trying ordeal know the painful longing which fills the heart of the one who is left waiting and watching hoping and praying, suffering in silence, but seldom, if ever, giving up to despair. Hope lingers on, day after day, week after week, month after month. Our boys in the fighting line may be wounded, torn and bleeding, but their physical suffering is nothing compared to the mental suffering of the brave soldier on the home front, the wife or mother of the boy who is missing.

THE OLD COVERED WAGON

Bring back the old covered wagon. Bring back the friends that were true. Bring back the days and the old fashioned ways. Of the old covered wagon we knew.

Up with the dawn in the morning. Off with the lark through the dew. The prairie'd unfold as westward we rolled. In that old covered wagon we knew.

The mountains we saw in the distance. With their shadows of purple and blue. At the end of the day as camped by way. In that old covered wagon we knew.

Each year as we gather together. There is some missing handclasp we knew. There is some empty place, there is some missing face. In that old covered wagon we knew.

You know how we miss you old timers. Today brings back memories of yore. Though your face may be gone, you will still carry on. In that old covered wagon we knew. Written Feb. 21st, 1944.

Christmas Gifts For Overseas Forces

"Do not open until Christmas." That exciting phrase should soon be making its appearance on parcel mail despite the fact that many places in Canada are just recovering from the hottest spell on record. Postmaster General William P. Mullock advises that it is time to make plans for Christmas gift parcels to members of the Armed Forces Overseas. The Christmas mailing period this year is September 15—October 25.

Naturally parcels sent to those serving in the more remote theatres of war should be sent the earliest. Suggested "deadline" mailing dates are:

Sept. 15—The Far East, India, Burma, Ceylon, etc.
Oct. 5—The Middle East area—Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Syria, etc.
Oct. 10—Central Mediterranean Forces.
Oct. 25—The United Kingdom and France.

In view of the rapid progress of the war these dates might possibly be subject to change.

A suggestion to further help our boys and girls on active service receive their gifts from home is to voluntarily cut down, as far as possible, on the size of the package, even though the maximum weight at the special rate of 12 cents per pound is 11 lbs. This will enable authorities to ship a greater number of parcels in the cargo space available.

The bitter disappointment caused by late arrival of Christmas gifts can be spared our fighting services too if citizens will give the most careful attention to correct addressing and proper packing. Last Christmas season thousands of parcels were received at the base post office in a damaged condition. They had to be set aside for repair or readdressing in order that they might be safely sent on to destination. This caused delay and extra work for the postal Corps. The longer the distance a parcel must travel under wartime conditions to reach its destination at a battle front, the more imperative is careful packing.

Each parcel should be carefully packed in corrugated shock-proof containers, the contents compact so that they will not shake loose and break out of the package. Then the parcels should be wrapped in several layers of wrapping paper, and securely tied with strong twine.

On no account should "shoe boxes" be used as containers, they easily crush and break.

Avoid using fancy colored Christmas paper as an outside wrapper, or colored ribbon to tie.

Any substance likely to leak, spread and damage the mails if sent at all, must be enclosed in sealed metal containers with lids securely soldered on, then surrounded with absorbent material in corrugated cardboard and securely wrapped and tied.

The mailing of matches, safety matches, lighter fluid or any other inflammable substance is prohibited by law.

A completed customs declaration should be attached to each parcel.

All mail should be fully and clearly addressed in ink, without misleading abbreviations. Place a return address on the cover of each parcel and also a slip among the contents giving the name and address of the sender and the complete armed forces address that appears on the parcel. Prepay all mail correctly. By refraining from writing to a member of the armed forces overseas that gifts are being sent, until actually mailed, much worry can be saved the soldier. Do not disappoint our men by mailing too late for Christmas delivery.

Persons who mail early for Christmas to the armed forces overseas can rest assured that the authorities will do everything possible to make delivery on time.

THE POST WAR TOURIST

TWO gatherings will be held in Canada this month. Though many miles apart, their subjects must enter Canadian post-war planning. One group, meeting in Ontario, will discuss Canada and her post-war tourist problem. The other, in Calgary, will deal with Canada and her post-war aviation plans.

These two subjects suggest an Alberta business which will embrace many post-war employment problems, our future economy, and will provide an asset to our citizens for generations.

Nature has given us the tourist setting. Scenic beauty combines with the realization of sportsmen's dreams here in Alberta. Tourist interest is not confined within the area of our national parks. Along the foothill area each side road leads into some quiet and lovely spot, some crystal creek and game-filled valley. These remain unknown but to local residents. Our wheatlands abound in game and our far north remains an unknown and exciting adventure.

War has quickened the day of air travel. Tomorrow will see the air tourist. Distance as the automobile knows it will be cut thin and it will be no idle dream wherein we welcome the New York sportsman who flew up for a week-end's fishing on Alberta streams—for a week's sheep hunt in the Rockies, or a few days' at partridge on our prairies.

But first, there's a selling job waiting to be done. It can bring employment, business and revenue to post-war Alberta. It should be undertaken now. There are attractions, unseen and unknown by many of our own Albertans, that must be compiled and sold. A well arranged, well planned tourist publicity campaign, under the direction of government officials, can bring progress and revenue to the people of Alberta.

HERE AND THERE

The Duchess of Windsor underwent a successful operation for appendicitis at Roosevelt hospital, New York, Aug. 31.

Canadians, the richest people in the world, have the highest standard of living on the globe, G. C. McGeer, Liberal member of the parliament for Vancouver-Burrard, told a meeting of the Vancouver Board of Trade recently: "No 12,000,000 people in the world have more to do, or more to do with it, than the lucky people who live in the Dominion," he said.

Major J. B. Corley, M.B.E., district director of postal services, Calgary, retired from this position on August 31st after 43 years service.

Ingram and Bell Limited, Toronto drug supply firm, was recently fined $500.00 and costs for failing to affix to a shipment of methanol, a label describing it as poison.

Laval also makes the same profession as Petain that what he did was for the salvation of France, but Laval is not simple like Petain. He knows he is an oily, slippery customer, and is not fooling himself by what he protests. The Marshal on the other hand regards himself as a Christian eligible for canonization. Piety oozes out of every pore and he is able to make himself believe that he saved France from greater horrors when he allowed her to become the springboard and launching site of Nazi assaults upon the England that he hates more than he does Germany.

SERMONETTE

Two men went into the temple to pray; the one a Pharisee, and the other a publican. The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself, God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this publican. I fast twice in the week, I give tithes of all that I possess. And the publican, standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven, but smote upon his breast, saying, God be merciful to me a sinner. I tell you, this man went down to his house justified rather than the other. (Luke 18:10-14).

Many will be lost in eternity just because they have refused to take their place as a sinner before a Holy God. Justification is so simple and easy to obtain, but man's pride will hinder him from receiving it. A man may boast of his own goodness, even before God, but God will only accept the man who acknowledges his sin to Him.

A Prosperous Agriculture Means a Prosperous Canada

Prosperous Agriculture is a Prosperous Canada Says L. D. Nesbitt. Problems of Expanded Agriculture and Industry

L. D. Nesbitt, Sup't of Publicity Dep't of the Alberta Wheat Pool, covered many phases of agriculture in his talk to the U.F.A. of Macleod federal constituency at High River, recently.

In introduction he pictured the changes which have come about through mechanization in less than a generation and the amazing developments of the first four years of war. Although 400,000 farm workers were lost, farm production was increased 40%.

"In times of peace," he said, "this prodigious production would send prices tumbling. Under speculative marketing we might well be seeing, if there was no war, 25 ct. wheat, 8 cent oats, egg 5 cts. a dozen, wool 5 cts. a pound, hogs 3 cts. and beef at relatively low price. All this suggests that new marketing methods will be necessary in post-war years if farmers are to keep production up and gain a decent living; if hungry people of the world are to be fed and chaotic economic conditions averted.

Absence of Speculation a Godsend
"In my opinion the absence of speculation in principal grains during the war, and the establishment of an arbitrary initial payment by the wheat board have not only been the greatest stabilizing force in agriculture but have prevented ruination of thousands of farmers. I cannot see how agriculture can be maintained in stable condition and hungry people of the world fed under speculative marketing systems. Under such system any little excess is used as a club to beat down prices. Decent returns are obtainable only under scarcity which brings semi-starvation to millions. No group of farmers can concentrate on food production to the limit with the baffling uncertainty of wildly fluctuating prices. No other group of citizens must work under such conditions."

Continuing, Mr. Nesbitt said that if other classes of Canadians obtained financial rewards under a speculative system, the post-war financial papers might carry such items as the following:

"May carpenters quoted steady to 25 cents off. July plumbers reacted to persistent drive by short sellers by dropping 30 cts. below yesterday's average. Weakness in the barbers' pit, September haircuts dropping to 30 cts. The only strong point in the labor market was in stenographers where a squeeze put the September price up to $25 a week."

Or in industrial fields: "Demand for freight cars falls off owing to short grain crop. This morning's market recorded a drop of 2 cts. a bushel on shipment to Ft. William. Cars offered freely at reduced freight rate."

Or in professions and politics: "Large crop of doctors graduating this year, resulting in cost of appendix operations dropping $10 on the medical exchange. Increased demand in recent weeks for politicians and price rises another dime a dozen. Bull market in the making with election in the offing."

"Seriously," said the speaker, "these ridiculous examples are similar to conditions under which the far-

Milk IS NOT ELASTIC

Milk is our most valuable food. It must provide us with milk to drink, with butter, cheese, evaporated and concentrated milk and a score of other products.

Canadian farmers have done a magnificent job. They have increased milk production in 1943 by more than 540 million quarts over 1938.

They have done this in the face of a 25% reduction in farm help, equipment shortages, and the fact that it takes two to three years to bring a calf into milk production.

The production of milk and milk products in Canada has achieved a notable record. Careful planning makes the best use of every quart. But we must recognize the conditions imposed by war and realize that in these times we all can't get all we want.

Chairman
Wartime Prices & Trade Board

WHAT HAPPENS TO ALL THIS MILK?

In spite of greater production, the demand for milk and milk products has risen even more, because—

- (a) There's more money to spend;
- (b) More people are working, with changed food habits and increased food needs;

- (c) Our Armed Forces and Allies make heavy demands.

It has therefore been necessary by rationing, by subsidies, by careful planning and by other controls—to divert our milk supply into channels most suited to our various food needs.

FLUID MILK TAKES 35% OF OUR MILK

Because fluid milk is regarded by nutritionists as the most nearly perfect food, nothing has been allowed to interfere with its sale. Today, Canadians are drinking more milk and a greater percentage of our milk supply is being consumed as fluid milk—than ever before. Fluid milk has the right of way, but don't waste a drop of it.

BUTTER TAKES 48% OF OUR MILK

IT TAKES 9 QUARTS OF MILK TO MAKE ONE POUND OF BUTTER

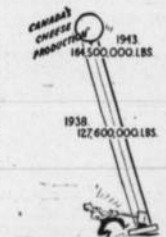

The only Canadian-made butter not consumed in Canada is that sent by the Red Cross in prisoner-of-war parcels, each of which contains a 1 lb. tin.

In the first three years of war, our butter consumption increased 10.9%. So, rationing was established to prevent too much milk going into butter, at the expense of other important milk products, and to insure a fair share to everyone.

The rationing of butter was influenced by the fact that it has less nutritive value than some other milk products, and because we get a generous supply of fats or their food equivalent in other forms.

To maintain a proper balance of consumption between various milk products and to ensure that butter is put into storage for winter use—when production drops—it is necessary to reduce the ration from time to time.

CHEESE TAKES 10% OF OUR MILK

Canada's annual cheese production has gone up by about 37 million pounds since the war.

Cheese is a concentrated food product—easily shipped and stored. That is one reason why we send large quantities to Great Britain to help meet its pressing food needs. While in the last year we exported four of every five pounds of cheese we made, our production has been so increased that we have left for domestic use about three million pounds a year more than before the war.

EVAPORATED MILK TAKES 6% OF OUR MILK

More than twice as much (152 million lbs.) was used by Canadians this last year as in 1938 (74 million lbs.). And yet, there has not been enough.

Where has it all gone? It's an important food for babies—and there are 50,000 more of them a year. Larger quantities have gone to areas where fresh milk is not available. Armed Services have added new demands. In spite of this, our exports of evaporated milk to Great Britain, Newfoundland and the West Indies, etc., are maintained at pre-war level.

ICE CREAM AND OTHER MILK PRODUCTS TAKE ABOUT 1 1/2% OF OUR MILK

The manufacture of ice cream is restricted to the 1941 level because milk is needed for other purposes. Casein (a milk by-product) is used in making glue for aeroplanes.

90% OF THE MILK PRODUCED IN CANADA IS CONSUMED IN CANADA

When Peace Comes
Mr. Nesbitt outlined the developments during the war in wheat board handling, in quota marketing (which he believes should never be abandoned) and other factors which carried farmers over a critical period.

When peace comes, there will be an interval of feeding and rehabilitation, no matter what the cost. But trade will finally have to be resumed and the wellbeing of the world suggests that this be broad and equitable. Before the war British imports totalled a billion pounds a year of which 60% was covered by exports, and the remainder from proceeds of investments sale of shipping, banking and other services. Britain has been the greatest food market in the world, but when the war ends the British people will have no money for such imports nor will impoverished nations of Europe. "Unquestionably some form of trade will have to be developed, likely to consist of direct exchanges of products on nation to nation basis."

Domestic Market
"Without export outlets our farm population cannot live. Normally, nearly half the grain farmers of the west work for Europe. That is why organized farm groups in the west are anxious to see that the international wheat committee is successful in its plans to allocate markets and fix floor prices in wheat. Wheat is the key commodity in agriculture and world trade.

"The domestic consumption is limited, and even in present peak employment food consumption has risen only 8% despite the fact that after 5 years of war Canada is better fed at lower prices than the people of any nation. The rise in living costs in Canada has been 18%, in Australia 25%, Portugal 90% and so on. But a most complex problem faces Canada after the war. Industrial development has grown tremendously and most of the new industries intend to continue. So interests of industry and agriculture clash. If we intend to maintain farm production as we have been doing we will have to buy from industrial Europe, and where farmers of Canada produce enough food for 25,000,000. In the post war years U.F.A. has stated that Hon. James Gardiner's legislation in establishing a floor price on agricultural products will be inestimable benefit to farmers if it is what observers regarded as in the years following the first great war.

"A prosperous Canadian agricultural industry will mean a prosperous Canada—a great undeveloped reservoir for industrial products. There is overwhelming need on farms for bathrooms, electricity, furnaces, paint, and machinery and an infinity of products. Farm population lacks on-ly constant purchasing power to initiate the greatest industrial expansion of the twentieth century."

WHEN GRANDMA WAS A GIRL

Grandmother, on a winter's day,
Milked the cows and fed them hay,
Sipped the hogs, saddle the mule
And got the children off to school;
Did a washing, mopped the floors,
Washed the windows and did some chores;

Cooked a dish of home-dried fruit,
Pressed her husband's Sunday suit,
Swept the parlour, made the bed,
Baked a dozen loaves of bread,
Split some firewood, and lugged in enough to fill the kitchen bin;
Cleaned the lamps, and put in oil,
Stewed some apples she thought would spoil;

Cooked a supper that was delicious -
And afterwards washed up all the dishes,
Fed the cat and sprinkled the clothes,
Mended a basketful of hose;
Then opened the organ and began to play.

Harvesting - Crop. U.F.W.A.
Plan Again to Supply Boys
Overseas with Boxes

The other day we saw, from our office window a tender and touching scene. A little Miss of some two or three summers had met with some minor catastrophe. It may have been an overturned kiddie car or perhaps some little pal had refused to play with her. Whatever the cause she was lying on the sidewalk and voicing her woes to the world in general. Out of the blue there came a ministering angel in the person of a high school girl. She set the wee tot upon her feet, dusted her dress and panties, crooned soft words of comfort, dried her tears, convinced her that life might yet hold something to live for and then took her own clean hanky and wiped her nose. Nothing unusual about that, you say, but my friend, therein you are wrong. There are hundreds, yea thousands of people who make a fuss over an immaculate, unsold child but who side with aversion at such homely tasks as wiping noses, changing diapers and putting wee white banners on the line. Admittedly these jobs must be done but by all means let the other fellow do it. The story is as old as humanity itself. The Philosopher of Galilee told a story of how a chap was robbed and left bleeding and beaten on the other side of the road. The Pharisee and the Levite passed by on the other side of the road, although they probably had a bountiful supply of hankies. Had the fellow in distress been a good church member, driving a Packard, they might have stopped long enough to help him to fix a flat, especially if none of their sect had been looking on. One must establish contacts you know. Wartime conditions bring about a supposed lowering of those precious standards of morality. Sometimes the time allowed to the man and the maid that do not meet the approval of the morally fastidious. Too often tragedy and illegitimacy creep in and too often people pass by on the other side. Quite often this aversion is not so much a result of conviction as of custom. Many people would personally embrace the sinner. The world today is full of people who need to be set on their feet, their tears dried, their noses wiped. Sympathy and kindness are not rationed. The right word at the right time will do so much to restore one's faith in the goodness of their fellowman. Let's be human, let's be decent, let the heart o'er rule the head, let's get out those hankies.

The Milo-Queenstown U.F.W.A. held their August meeting at the Pioneer school house, with the president Mrs. Tester conducting the meeting. A letter from the provincial executive was read telling of the increase in membership throughout the province from 9,000 in 1943 to 13,000 in 1944. The letter also told of a donation of $100 from the executive to the sufferers of the flood in the Pembina district. Mrs. McLaughlin donated a filet lace chair set to be sold to swell the overseas box fund. Last year this local sen. boxes to all local lads overseas and it is planned to repeat this service again this year. To raise money for the purpose a chicken supper will be held some time in September. At the close of the meeting a shower was held in honour of Mrs. John Papp of Cluny (nee Betty Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Williams. Mrs. Papp received a number of useful and beautiful gifts from both the U.F.W.A. and other friends who were present. A delightful buffet lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Smith of Seattle, Washington, are visiting Mrs. Smith's sister Mrs. A. Voors. Previous to her marriage Mrs. Smith was Miss Minnie Dalton and will be remembered by a few of the old timers of the district. The Daltons settled in this district about 1906.

A delightful shower was held at the Milo school dormitory in honour of Miss Agnes Otteson, sister of Mrs. George Heather. Miss Otteson had just completed two weeks teaching of the Norwegian-Lutheran Parochial school. Hosts at the shower were the Norwegian-Lutheran Ladies' Aid. Miss Otteson will be married some time in October to Sven Varhoug of Enchant and the young couple will make their home at the groom's farm there. The presentation was made by Mrs. C. Northcott and a suitable reply thanking the ladies for their delightful gifts was made by Miss Otteson.

A number of the farmers of this district are taking their combines to the Camrose district to take part in the harvest there. It appears that there is a decided labour shortage in the north and the district agriculturist arranged that they should swath their crops with the binder and arrangements would be made to have combines come from the southern districts to complete the job. This plan should prove remunerative to the owners of the combines as well as relieving the labour situation.

It seemed like old times last week. Many of the young people who have been leaving the district in the last five years were home on vacation or furlough. Advantage was taken of the occasion to hold a "get-together" picnic at Lake McGregor. The young folk who were home include Lawrence Smith, Lilly Wainwright, Joe Thomson, Happy Heather and Norris

DeWinton School Stops Training

After More Than Two Years Operation as a Centre for Students From Overseas

Close friendship with the boys of No. 31 DeWinton E.F.T.S. has been established with many of the residents of this district. As a part of the program of slowing down the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, the DeWinton school closed on Friday, August 25. The Calgary Albertan carried the following story on No. 31:

Unofficially known as the "League of Nations Flying School," No. 31 Elementary Flying Training School, R.A.F., at DeWinton, closed on Friday ending more than two years' operation as a centre for students from every Allied country.

The men who have trained there included Netherlands, French, Czech Poles, Belgians, Norwegians and even a Russian. About the only nationality not represented there at some time is Chinese.

From early in 1942, when it was established, until August of that year No. 31 was operated by the Air Force. In that month it changed to a civilian operated school, as are all other elementary flying training centres.

M.W. Alexander, a lieutenant in the Royal Navy Air Service in the last war, credited with 500 operational hours, and one-time air opponent of the last war famed Baron von Richtofen, has managed the centre.

The late Capt. A. Roy Brown, D.S.C., who finally downed the German ace, Richtofen, was a brother-in-law of Mr. Alexander.

Under him the school has taken the air minister's efficiency pennant and "Cock o' the Walk" trophy.

Officer commanding the school now is S/L A. J. Laing, who took over in February, and S. Ferguson, chief ground instructor, is one of the few "originals" still at the station.

Most of the men will return to England. S/L Laing, however, will take a course at the Central Flying School, Trenton, after leaving DeWinton.

1,500 Civilians To Aid in Harvest

Fifteen hundred civilian harvesters from eastern Canada will be sent to Alberta, according to information received Aug. 30 by the provincial department of agriculture from the Federal Department of Labor.

R. M. Putnam, director of the extension branch of the provincial department of agriculture, said first groups of these eastern workers, most from Ontario and Quebec, already are arriving in Edmonton. Last week 115 reached the city from the east. The movement westward will be in small groups, but it will be steady.

Any person may now slaughter hogs for sale without obtaining a slaughtering permit and may sell pork without having it stamped, according to revised regulation of the Price and Trade Board.

A fierce brush fire broke out in the Tarzana-Girard area west of Los Angeles recently, destroying at least 25 homes according to first police reports and sent ashes falling on downtown Los Angeles, 30 miles away.
